This may be further defined as an individual equity interest or property or service transactions. With prior management approval, TPC employees may serve as an officer or director of any company that does not have a material conflict with the interests of TPC. Employees may not serve on the Board of Managers or serve as an officer in a company that TPC management determines has material conflicts of interest with TPC, including but not limited to being a competitor or Vendor of TPC. The Board of Managers are required to follow the Ethics Policies of their employer(s). TPC's Business Ethics Policies address limitations and disclosure of gifts. Any company employee involved in the contracting process is prohibited from accepting any gift or participating in any business entertainment event offered by a prospective supplier/vendor if said participation would influence the contracting decision; in certain circumstances TPC employees may provide meals to vendors. Please see TPC's Business Ethics Policy. If an employee reports an ethics violation to any employee or manager, TPC's President/CEO is notified of the alleged activity. Depending on the circumstances, available information and perceived seriousness of the alleged violation, the President/CEO may notify the Chairman of the Board and initiate an internal and/or an external investigation. TPC's Business Ethics can be found on TPC's website at www.tpcselect.com. Scroll to the bottom of your screen and click on "compliance", "compliance documents" to access TPC's written Code of Business Ethics and Conduct document.

TPC:

Fees other than administrative fees (if any) are disclosed through TPC's financial reporting system and governance process. TPC:

TPC does not publish its decision criteria used to award potential contracts; however the TPC contracting team, as part of its due diligence, will openly share with each vendor, upon request, the anticipated decision criteria and timelines that will drive the contract award process. Information is equally available to participating vendors. Upon request, TPC's contracting team will communicate to those bidders that do not receive an award the criteria used in reaching the decision. TPC data, member data or other market/competitive information will not be disclosed. Requirements are developed for each unique contracting opportunity and are communicated by the TPC contracting process to each interested vendor. TPC does follow a best practice list of criteria when undergoing a vendor analysis and awarding a contract.

18. Describe the GPO's policy with regard to the use of single, sole, dual, and multi-source procurement and provide an example or two to support use of these contracting tools.

TPC:

As a member-driven organization, TPC may recommend a sourcing strategy but TPC members choose whether to accept the recommendation or propose an alternative strategy. Sole or dual source procurement is only used when TPC members determine it is necessary. Member participation in sole or dual source procurement sourcing contracts is voluntary in nature and the award is based on the overall value provided by the award winner. When contracting for a category or product segment, all current suppliers and qualified supplier candidates are considered. TPC staff prepares and presents quality, service and cost data and other decision criteria to TPC members and/or member committees. TPC members determine the appropriate direction and authorize TPC staff to make the final award decision based upon quantitative and qualitative data. Examples of sourcing strategies include: Food Distribution & Procurement Services (single source) and Temporary/Interim Staffing (dual source). TPC's contracting tools and governance process support the cost benefit analysis of having single, sole, dual or multi-source agreements.

19. Does the GPO permit bundling of unrelated products or services from the same vendor or from different vendors? If so, under what circumstances would the GPO consider bundling to be appropriate?

TPC:

TPC provides its members with access to Vizient's contracting portfolio and adheres to Vizient's policies regarding the use of bundling. TPC directs Vizient to provide contracting support and subject matter expertise when evaluating opportunities and outlining decision options. In some circumstances, TPC may negotiate directly with manufacturers of physician preference items. Physician preference items negotiated by TPC are done so based on the best interests and needs of TPC members. Agreements for clinical preference products, when awarded, are typically structured with a term of three years or less and options are always available to members to pursue innovative solutions that may improve the cost or quality of care delivered.

31. Does the GPO have the right to enter into a GPO contract for innovative technology at any time during its bid and award cycle? Describe the process the GPO has for fostering the development of GPO contracts for innovative products.

TPC maintains the appropriate latitude to enter into new contracts where new technology differentiates a product category or segment from previous technology offerings. TPC encourages suppliers to present new technologies that offer material advantages over previous or current technologies; this may be presented directly to TPC or to TPC's GPO partner, Vizient. In addition, when finalizing an award for a committed technology or product, TPC builds contingencies into its contract commitments that carves out the testing and potential adoption of innovative technology or products. If and when a new product or service can definitively improve the ability to deliver quality care and/or lower the cost, TPC will pursue adoption of such new products or services.

32. Are GPO members allowed to evaluate products and/or communicate with vendors, regardless of whether a vendor has a contract with the GPO?
